

MAISON TIROT

AMEICO

Adventure within reach of the bath

Founded in 1946 in Brittany, France, Maison Tirot has spent nearly 80 years crafting wooden toy boats inspired by the region's rich maritime heritage. Established by Francis Tirot, the company began creating durable wooden sailboats that encouraged imaginative outdoor and bath-time play.

Today, Maison Tirot remains one of the few manufacturers in France dedicated exclusively to wooden toy boats. Each boat is handcrafted in Brittany from sustainably sourced French beech wood and fitted with cotton sails, combining traditional craftsmanship with timeless design. Recognized for preserving exceptional artisanal skills, Maison Tirot received France's prestigious Entreprise du Patrimoine Vivant (Living Heritage Company) designation in 2012. Their colorful sailboats continue to delight children and collectors alike, bringing a touch of French nautical tradition to homes around the world.

LE MISAINIER

Inspired by the traditional fishing boats once found along the coast of southern Brittany, the Le Misainier is a handcrafted wooden sailboat that captures the spirit of France's maritime heritage. Made in Brittany from sustainably sourced beech wood and fitted with a cotton sail, each boat is carefully hand-built and painted using techniques passed down through generations.

Designed to float in bathtubs, ponds, and calm waters, the Le Misainier combines timeless craftsmanship with imaginative play. Its distinctive low-profile hull is modeled after historic Breton fishing vessels that were built to ride the ocean swells, making it both a charming toy and a beautiful decorative keepsake.
